WHAT WILL THE WEATHER BE?

Question That Is Agitating England No Expert Will Attempt to Answer With Contidence-Outlook Is Favorable.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC. London, June 21 - (Copyright, 1922) - What will the weather be next Thursday and Friday? This is the most important question new agitating the public mind. There is reason to be auxious about the answer, considering what awful weather there has been for many weeks paid. It has been the most wretched summer, so far as known, within the memory of the oldest Londoner.

The decorations for the great fetes next rock have suffered most immentably. In many cases they have had to be almost

In a elimate like this, it is impossible to foretell what the weather will be like, more than twenty-four hours in advance. Even then the meteorological office is not always then the meteorological office is not always right. But it may be said now that general appearances would seem to be favorable for a change in the weather for the better. Wednesday brought the first cheering signs. It was really warm and bright. It is rather remarkable that the rain should have ceased just when the farmers consider they have got the right average for sider they have got the right average for the year. Anyway, all fears of drought later on in the summer, which for the last few summers have caused great anxiety, era dispelled.

Weather Outlook Is Favorable. In a talk with an official of the meteorological office about the probable weather next week, he approached the subject very cautiously, but said he believed the occasion of the coronaxion would be graced by royal weather. He said:

"Making the records of the last fifteen was a find that the first Iwo weeks of years, I find that the first two weeks of June were wet, followed by fine weather during the remainder of the month. That is what appears to be the situation now." I was talking also with a sea captain. He said everything pointed to good weather for the coronation. His reason was this:

During the last day or two you might have noted that the wind has been following the course of the sun. From the west it veered round to the northwest, then to the north, round to the northeast by east, then southeast. While there may be a little rain, perhaps even a thunderstorm, before the wind gets right round in the west again, there is every hope of fine weather next streets, Hotels and Theaters Crowded

Profiting by the change in the weather for the better, crowds have paraded the London streets both day and night this week, viewing the preparations for the great days. They have been unfamiliar crowds which tested which jostled and elbowed one in walking which jostled and elbowed one in walking the principal thoroughfares. They came from the Provinces, suburbs and outlying districts curious to see what is being done in preparation for the great pageants of Thursday and Friday next.

The heavy rains had for weeksprevious deterred sight-seers from coming to the heart of the city, but the bright sunshine brought them out in vast numbers. The crowds have been particularly thick in Fleet street, the Strand and Piccadilly, while, of course, the neighborhood of Westminster Abbey attracted thousands. There have been trial illuminations of the Bank of England and other large buildings. These naturally attracted great sumbers of people.

But it is not only in the streets that the near approach of the coronation is apparent. Dropping in one night at several principal batels and restaurants, I found everything crowded. At the Carlton there was not a table to be had. At Prince's and the Savoy it was the same. The theaters have also been foing a great business. While I was standing near the theater ticket office at the Carlton I heard the clerk in charge call up Daly's, the Apollo, the Empire, the Gaiesy and Her Majesty's, only to be told that there were no stalls or hoxes available.

Insufficient Transportation.

Insufficient Transportation.

Insufficient Transportation.

One feature which struck me as being very significant of what one may expect next week, to a worse degree, was the insufficient transportation. Omnibus after compibus, full inside and on the top, rolled past crowds of waiting people anxious to reach their homes. Both sidewalks along Fleet street and the Strand were black with people trudging along and gazing wist-tuny at the crowded 'buses.

I went down to one of the stations of the Underground Railway and found the same conditions prevailing. The platforms were filled with people, who crowded into trains as fast as they came along. The Tuppenny Tube for several hours in the evening was also crowded almost to its fullest capacity. Street traffic is, of course, very much congested. Buses and cabs move more slowly than usual this week in advance of cornation day. Aiready the antiquated transportation facilities of the greatest city of the world are taxed almost to their ut-

The above are the winners in the second of the series of The Republic's prixe puralle picture contests, with the prizes selected. The second contest proved fully as interesting and instructive as the first, but while the number of answers received from contestants was about as great as last week, it is evident that quite a large number of children were discouraged from attempting to compete because the purale proved to be more difficult than the first contest proved so easy, as manifested in the large percentage of correct solutions sent in, made it incumbent on The Republic to make the second contest more difficult of make the second contest more difficult. He successful contestants from a distance might have a more equal chance with contestants in St. Louis.

The purale subject last Sunday was "The Outing of the Flat Car Excursionists," depicting the excursionists; taking a flying ground at a speed which causes several of the jodly party to less their hats and parasola. The purale was the find the lost articles and place them in proper position on the figures in the lower section of the page. Right here the artist worked a trick which may be emphasized here that in these contests the contestants must keep last which may be emphasized here that it is point of the figures in the lower section of the fact which hay be emphasized here that it is an interest like distinctly a boys game, in the lower section of the fact which hay be emphasized here that it is a successful near the first care t

There were six lost hats and three lost parasols in the upper picture, and only five figures in the lower picture te fit them to. Clearly, three of the hats and one parasol could not be used. A little study would show that the three smaller hats would not properly fit the heads of the men below, and the parasol without the handle could not be properly placed in the hands of either of the two ladies. The other larger hats and the parasola fitted per-

BOERS BEGAN WITH 50,000. Commander Kemp Gives Some In-Kimberley, June 2L.—Commandant Kemp, Delarcy's licutenant, who surrendered at Mafoking, in an interview here gave interesting figures regarding the Boer war. He said about 50,000 Boers were in the field at the outset, and only 1,500 out of 5,000 available men fought at Colenso, where the Boer losses were not heavy. At Spion Kop, where the British suffered so much, the Boers had only fifty-three men killed. In one of the fights outside Ladysmith, the Boers had fifty-six men killed and more than 100 wounded. Their losses were heavier at Brakspuit and Vlakenfontein. The Boers were often worried by the British shrappel and lyddite fire, but when intrenched they did not fear the shells. Members of the Boer forces often managed to get into Johannesburg, Krugersdorp and Pretoria, procuring valuable information, and frequipently crossed the blockhouse lines at night. Commandant Kemp did not allow the Boers of his command to wear khaki, the British uniform.

EARTHQUAKES THAT HAVE BURIED CITIES.

Among the manifold disasters which are constantly overtaking the human family there is none so full of awe and terror as the earthquake. From the beginning of history—and long before it—the habita-tions of men have been leveled or buried underground by earthquake shocks and volcanic eruptions, and the number of human beings killed in this way passes comprehension. In seventy-five years-that is, from 1783 to 1837—the Kingdom of Naples lost 111,000 inhabitants by earth-Naples lost III,000 inhabitants by earthquakes. This is at the rate of more than 1-500 per year out of a population of 5,000,000. The most disastrous earthquake of recent history was the great Lisbon shock on November I. 1753. In less thin eight minutes almost all the houses of Lisbon were overturned, 56,000 of the inhabitants were killed and whole streets were burled. The cities of Colmbra, Oporto, Braga and St. Ubes were destroyed. Malagu, in Spain, was larkely reduced to ruins. One-half of Fex. in Morocco, was destroyed and 12,000 Arabs killed. The Island of Maderia was laid low. The shock was felt 5,000 miles away, and even Scotland was given a slight upheaval.

Following is a list of the principal earthquakes of history:

London, June 21.—A long dispatch from Lord Roberts, published in the Official Gazette, being a continuation of the field dispatches written when he was in command in South Africa, includes a long list of those singled out for distinguished mention. Lord Roberts speaks highly of the Canadian contingent, especially in connection with the unsuccessful attack on Cookson's camp, March 31, 1993, in which he says the Canadian mounted rifles sustained the heaviest loss of the day. He particularly comments on the gallantry of Lieutenant Bruce Carruthers. Among the civilians mentioned in the dispatches are Lady Henry Bentinck, Bernard N. Baker, president of the Atlantic Transport Line, and Mrs. George Cornwallis-West of the hospids ship Maine.

In conclusion, Lord Roberts says he

In conclusion, Lord Roberts says he wishes to record the fact that in April, 1890, Queen Victoria intrusted him with four woodlen scarfs, worked by herself, which she desired to be distributed to four distinguished private soldiers of the colonial contingents of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. The selection of the recipient in each case was left to the colonial officer commanding the contingent. The Canadian scarf goes to Private (now Leutenant) Richard Rowland Thompson of the Royal Canadian Regiment, for personal gallantry in the field.

New York, June II.—"My wife and daughter had social aspirations. They wanted me to move into a more fashionable neighborhood and to dress like a dude, and when I wouldn't do it the trouble began.

This is the answer made by Laike Egan, a wealthy retired manufacturer of No. 27. Ryerson street. Brooklyn, to the suit brought by his wife Edisabeth M. Egan, for separation and alimony. Supreme Coyri Justice Gaynor allowed Mrs. Egan 30 counsel fees, but refused alimony pending the trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Egan were married June 27, 1971. They have a daughter, Blanche, who is a school teacher, and a son, Leo, who holds a good position in a New York mer-

Turning Gray?

Why not have the early, dark, rich color restored? It's easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor. Nearly everybody uses it. Ask your own friends. Probably they know how it always restores color, checks falling, and keeps the hair rich and glossy.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor and have found it a great remedy. It checked the falling of my hair when all other remedies had failed." -- Mrs. G. A. Morrison, Millinocket, Me.
